In a joint working group comprising ergonomics and PPE experts and a quite long but successful process, the CEN-TC 122/JWG9 of Ergonomics and PPE have developed a standard. This standard EN 13921: 2007 "PPE-Ergonomic principles" is now published and gives in a practical manner guidelines for application of ergonomic principles. This document is not formulated in a too stiff manner(requirements), but contains recommendations and facts to be considered in particular by PPE manufacturers and standardizers.
